

Delivering Chemotherapy With Confidence:

New Strategies to Minimize Treatment-Induced Nausea and Vomiting

Friday
26 September 2014
15.00-17.00

San Sebastian
Auditorium

Chair

Matti Aapro, MD
Multidisciplinary Oncology Institute
Genolier, Switzerland

Faculty

Pascale Dielenseger, RN
Institut Gustave Roussy
Villejuif, France

Richard Gralla, MD
Albert Einstein College of Medicine
New York, New York, United States

Karin Jordan, MD
University Hospital
Halle, Germany

Agenda

- 15.00 Welcome and introduction
Matti Aapro, MD
- 15.05 Avoiding poisons: Why do patients vomit with chemotherapy?
Richard Gralla, MD
- 15.25 Right the first time: What's best for my patient?
Karin Jordan, MD
- 15.45 Another brick in the wall: Dependable antiemetic prophylaxis for moderately and highly emetogenic chemotherapy
Matti Aapro, MD
- 16.05 Questions and panel discussion
- 16.15 Reaching the finish line: Applying the principles to routine clinical care
Pascale Dielenseger, RN
- 16.25 Let's make it personal: Case discussions
Pascale Dielenseger, RN, and Matti Aapro, MD
- Clinical Scenario #1 – Moderately emetogenic chemotherapy
- Clinical Scenario #2 – Highly emetogenic chemotherapy
- Clinical Scenario #3 – Delayed emesis
- 16.55 prIME Points™
Matti Aapro, MD
- 17.00 Adjourn